Orval W. Adams

It is said that bankers are cold blooded, and if any one is suffering from excessive heat the best way to cool off is to brush up against a banker, not when one has a past due note to settle but when one wants a loan under such times as the present, but we are of the opinion that the subject of the above cut, Mr. Orval W. Adams, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Savings Bank, of this city, will not be found in that class. Mr. Adams has recently entered upon his new duties, and brings to his institution all the qualifications necessary to make it a success. He received his early training at the U. A. C. after which he accepted a position at the First National Bank of this city. He soon showed class in the banking world and stepped into the cashiership of the Hiram State Bank, where he served until his departure for the missionfield. Upon his return he did not have to wait for a job but had many offered to him. He accepted the offer of the Merchants Bank of Salt Lake City, of which Mr. John Pingree of First National Bank of Ogden fame is president. Mr. Pingree is a top notcher in Utah banking and advertises his bank as "The bank with a personality." This personality business is something that is becoming to Orval W. Adams. He had it before he went to the Merchants Bank and under Mr. Pingree it became more polished and perfect. His genial countenance may be seen during banking hours at his desk where the citizens of the community are assured of a pleasant smile, a warm hand shake and such treatment that makes one think life worth the living even under hard and trying financial circumstances.

GERMANS REPULSED

London, Oct. 5.—A dispatch to the Central News from Antwerp, dated Sunday night, says:

The Germans have been repulsed. They asked for a two hour armistice to bury their dead, but Belgians refused to comply.

"The Belgians have destroyed all the bridges over the river Nethe. The Germans unsuccessfully attempted to rebuild the bridges."

INTERURBAN ELECTRIC ROAD CELEBRATION

Committee Has Been Appointed by Hyrum Industrial Club to Make Arrangements

Hyrum, Oct. 5.—At the regular meeting of Hyrum Industrial Club, held on Thursday evening last, a committee, consisting of M. A. GRI, H. F. Liljenquist, and H. R. Adams, was appointed to arrange a program for the celebration of the incoming interurban electric road. A committee of two also were appointed from each ward to act conjointly with the bishops from each ward to try and induce a better attendance in the high school. Also a committee of three consisting of Mayor J. W. Jensen, C. C. Petersen and R. A. Eliason, was appointed to wait upon the officials of the interurban railroad and insist that they give the people of Hyrum at least a waiting station for the accommodation of passengers who may be waiting for the car, or for conveyance from the station, in either rain or sunshine, instead of having to stand on the street without shelter; the station to be located at the intersection of Center and First North streets.

Some of the members of the First ward Relief Society spent a day of work and pleasure combined at their meeting house this week, where they quilted four quilts and enjoyed a nice lunch. Those who give of their means and their time will surely receive their reward as the good book tells us "Charity never faileth."

Elder William Darley of Wellsville, and Elder Bert Thompson of the Second ward, who just recently returned from the mission field were the speakers at the First ward Sunday afternoon. After the services the people of the ward felt highly honored by having the silver band favor them with some of their fine musical selections.

Work on the interurban line is certainly being pushed with all possible speed. The track is all laid between Hyrum and Providence, and the overhead department is rushing things in the way of setting poles and fixtures for stretching the wires for the transmission of power. The large force of men working between Hyrum and Wellsville is also making good progress, and within a month we expect to see the line completed and the towns of southern Cache connected by electric car service.

Harold Gill left last Monday for Longmont, Colorado, where he has employment in the sugar factory at that place.

Bishop James J. J. Facer returned Tuesday evening from a trip to the Teton Basin, to look over some land propositions. Mr. Facer speaks very favorably of the Teton valley and its opportunities.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sorenson of this city are happy over the arrival of a fine daughter, Sunday, September 27. All are doing nicely.

Mr. Joseph C. Anderson is building an addition to his barber shop. Hyrum Gulbrandson and Edward Anderson are doing the work.

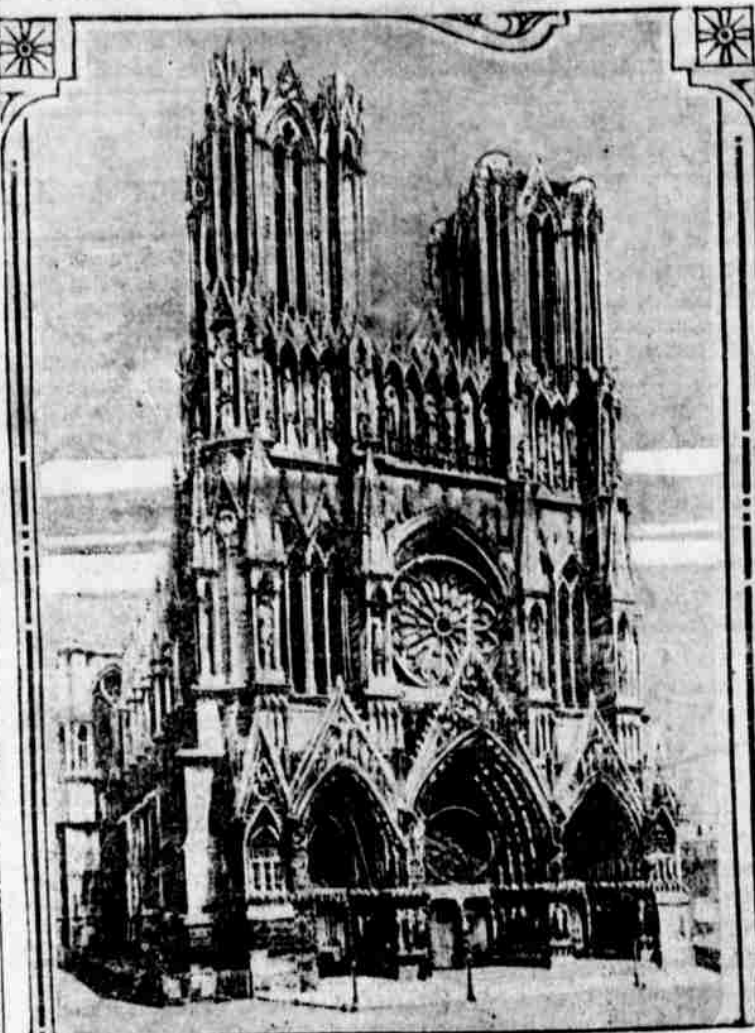

Mr. A. J. Clawson and family who have been living at Briggs, Idaho, the past few months, were visitors at the First ward last Sunday.

Quite a force of men are working on the road to the mine in left hand fork of Blacksmith Fork canyon, in view of hauling out a carload of ore for shipment.

HEARD SOME ONE CALL HIM BOB

Mr. Robert Anderson received a communication yesterday somewhat out of the ordinary. The writer was making application for the job of "Sec. 4 man" and addressed the communication to Mr. Bob Anderson. After concluding the letter the writer adds the following postscript: "I don't know your first name but I heard someone call you Bob."

Famous Cathedral of Rheims May Be Restored After War.

Regarding the reported destruction of the famous cathedral of Rheims by the Germans the correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph sends this story of the situation at Rheims: "To the visitor Rheims, wreathed in smoke and echoing with the boom of cannonading, presents a forlorn and disconsolate sight. Around the cathedral hardly a house escaped damage. In front of the facade of the cathedral stands a statue of Joan of Arc. The figure is unscathed, but the horse and pedestal are chipped and scored by shells and the flames. At first sight the exterior of the cathedral does not appear to be much damaged, although the masonry is chipped, scoured and whitened by countless shrapnel bullets, while many carved figures and gargoyles have been broken off. In the doorway still stands the crippled beggar who has sought alms there for many years. He maintained his post throughout the bombardment, and like a statue, he stands covered with dust, pebbles and glass. The man was unharmed. He was crippled in the war of 1870. An examination of the interior shows that the better part of fifty shells had found lodgment, but luckily, the range being very great, the solid stonework of the building had resisted the successive shocks. The priceless glass of the windows suffered the most. In the center of the vault the great candelabra which hung from the roof lie broken in the center of the floor amid a great mass of debris. The general impression is that the cathedral can be restored, although most of its priceless decorations are ruined."

DEMOCRATS NOW STALL

It is now charged that the Democrats are stalling and have refused to confirm the acceptance of their offer to the Progressives. Or at least that is the report on the street given by the Democrats that they fixed the Moosers Saturday evening by not having a thing to do with them. Large numbers of Democrats are saying that the price is too high while the Progressives really seem to have the better of the argument, and have shown greater generalship throughout. The Progressives argue that they elected the Democrats two years ago, and these Democrats are now enjoying the fruits of the labors of the Progressives, and that their services in the coming election ought to be worth half the offices or none at all. Really it seems but justice.

PREPARE TO SPRING TRAP

London, Oct. 5.—A Bordeaux dispatch to the Times says: "The Germans may soon have cause to regret the success of the movement which carried them to St. Mihiel and the banks of the Meuse. While their engineers are making unavailing efforts to bridge the river again, the French are working step by step towards their rear."

"The balance of days and nights of exhaustion, in dripping trenches, of dashing bayonet charges, gallant cavalry actions and obstinate bombardments is about to be struck. France awaits the end of the three weeks struggle with confidence while casting an eye upon Antwerp."

Among Logan's business men in Salt Lake are to be found William Edward and Luther M. Howell.

BUTCHERS MUST KEEP CLEAN SHOP

Last Saturday parties from the north interested in the butcher business were cited to appear before County Attorney Bowen by Commissioner Hansen of the Pure Food and Sanitation Bureau to show cause why they should not be prosecuted for unsanitary methods used around their slaughter house. The case is being held under advisement as to whether or not a prosecution will follow. One or two other cases are likely to come to the front if more careful methods are not adopted in killing and caring for meat.

Inspector Turner is determined that cleanups shall be made where necessary even if it takes prosecution to do the work.

ORGANIZATION OF CLASSES AT B. Y. COLLEGE

Meetings of the different classes were held Friday morning at the close of chapel exercises, for the purpose of electing officers for the present year. In each class membership has increased considerably over that of last year.

In the first year class nominations were made but officers will not be voted upon until next Friday.

The college students will not organize for another week or so as many of the old students will not return until that time.

PRESENT DRAMA FOR THIRD TIME

Harold Bell Wright, who is said to be the most popular of the younger American novelists, with the assistance of Elsbeth W. Reynolds has made a dramatization of his most widely read novel, The Shepherd of the Hills, and its third presentation in this city will take place at the Lyric theatre Friday night October 9th.

Mr. Wright is a man with a mission and a message—he is a story teller, and when the story ends we begin life "along the sunlit fields—where the light lingers even when the sun is down." We start this journey of "The Higher Trail Among the Hills" because the gifted writer puts into our hearts the benediction of a renewed faith in men and women, a vital love for truth and beauty, and a deathless hope in the good outcome among the mysteries brooding where our Pilgrim way meets horizon shadows. He calls his story a very old story. This is true, indeed, for have not good and bad been seen in ceaseless conflict since the dawn of human life? Have not toil and love gathered their blossoms and fruit since the time when men and women first learned to weep and sing? The story is old if age comes with the portrayal of the elemental and eternal forces of our human world; but it is new—wonderfully fresh and sweet with the morning light and dew of virgin hills and valleys—for these age-long forces of the soul find expression in the characters to whom we have never been introduced until now. Yet these people of the Ozarks are real flesh and blood folk; some it is true, reach the heroic; still we feel in them the throbs of kinship to all who live outside their almost enchanted land.

Here is a play worth seeing in this day of multitudinous and insipid drama. Here is a plot. The movement is ever onward—there are no retragrade and meaningless eddies in this stream of happenings. The current of events seizes you and takes you on and on, and when the end comes you are glad and sorrowful—glad because so good a play ends as it does, sorrowful because it ends so soon.
